Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I do not want to pay more for my telephone service! I urge you to reject a flat fee proposal that would change how contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund. I am concerned that this proposal could make my current service unaffordable.

Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. In other words, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers. This is unfair!

I use my wireless phone for safety, security and convenience. I also choose not to live in a rural, hard-to-reach area that the USF provides for. I make this choice knowing the costs involved. Those who live in areas hard to serve should consider the costs involved in their choice of where they live. I shouldn't be forced to pay for someone else's desire to live in a hard to reach locale

Keep the USF Fair!

Sincerely,

Desiree Davis
